STREET DEPARTMENT STABLES AND PROPOSED EQUIPMENT

Superintendent Boyd of the Public Works Department hopes to effect the removal of the present street department stables to the government lot in Kakaako, near Kiawe street, and give the present location just Walkiki of the Judiciary grounds over to public park purposes. The proposed site for the stables was recommended to Mr. Boyd by Assistant Superintendent Campbell, and it is now being filled up to the proper grade established in that district. The expense of filling it up is estimated at about $1,900. Wherever the street department can get hold of any loose dirt that nobody else wants, it is carted to the lot. It is one of the insanitary places complained of by the Board of Health as a menace to public health in its present condition, and the Public Works Department in complying with the board's request to make it sanitary, is also making valuable ground, which would be an ideal site for the location of the stables.

The department has about eighty head of horses and mules, a fine equipment of corporation dump carts and patent four-wheeled unloading wagons, steam rollers, horse-rollers, besides a well assorted lot of tools for street work. There will be sheds for each section of equipment, and the stables are designed after the most modern ideas for housing animals, with special provision for ventilation. The present stables, which the assistant superintendent characterizes as totally unfit for the housing of animals and a disgrace to the city, are arranged so that one part of the building is against a wall, giving no ventilation from that side, and the horses and mules are so stalled that in case of fire, only those in the outer stalls could be saved. The proposed stables will be built in the open with stalls opening out on open ground, and with a long alleyway running between the two rows. The horses' heads would face in on the alleyway. This would provide ventilation on every side. In feeding the animals everything would be sent down from the second story in chutes, on the same plan as at now in vogue in the new sanitary stables of the Union Feed Company in Kakaako.

In the grounds would be the office of the foreman, shed for the steam rollers and horse rollers; one for the carts, one for the wagons; one for the tools; one for the scrapers and plows, the entire area of 150x350 feet to be surrounded by a high fence, with a large entrance near the foreman's office.

These are the recommendations which will be urged upon the legislature at its next session. By the time it meets the area will probably be filled in to street grade, and be in readiness for the construction of buildings, in case the legislature makes the necessary appropriation.

The garbage department stables, now conducted under the Superintendent of Public Works, instead of the Board of Health as heretofore, will continue in their present location in Kakaako, as they are in fairly good condition.

BUILDS GLASS BOTTOMED BOAT

Plan for Studying - Bottom of the Sea at Any Point.

The Young Brothers are at present building a boat fitted in the bottom with a cased pane of the finest plate glass procurable, one-fourth of an inch thick. This will be so placed that it can be easily removed, as one of the most important conditions for success is that the glass be perfectly clean.

This apparatus will work like a common water glass, but will be more convenient. Any number of people can watch the bottom through the bottom pane, while remaining perfectly at ease. This kind of boat is much used on Catalina Island. Herbert Young says that a clear day a water glass will allow the eye to penetrate ten to twelve fathoms. With a glass bottomed boat, where the light from above is excluded by a wide awning the bottom may be inspected at from twelve to eighteen fathoms.

While it is Young's plan to take passengers out to the reef surrounding the harbor, it is especially with an eye to the wrecking business that he is building the boat. There are any number of lost anchors, chains and various other things of value resting undisturbed at the bottom of the harbor. It is Young's plan to locate them and raise them later. He also intends making a complete survey of the Pearl Harbor bar. Young expects to be ready with his boat in three or four weeks.

IMPROVEMENTS AT MAKIKI CEMETERY

Department of Public Works Will Build New Fences to Preserve the Grounds.

Plans have been prepared and submitted to Superintendent Boyd of the Department of Public Works for the improvement of Makiki cemetery. The plans call for a high concrete wall extending from Prospect street to a point opposite Dr. Wood's residence, and the remainder of the cemetery is to be enclosed in a high picket fence. Penders for these improvements will be asked in a few days. Formerly there was no appropriation for the care of the cemeteries, but the last Legislature remedied that defect, and hereafter the Makiki cemetery will be cared for. It was formerly the custom to allow the natives to cut the grass, which they sold to the Chinese, and they were depended upon to keep the place clean for this concession. They have become careless now, and the work will hereafter be done by the Department of Public Works.

"HEAVY-WEIGHT" SUPREME BENCH

Judge Gear and Thos. Fitch
Will Sit With Justice
Galbraith Today.

Three "heavyweight" justices will sit on the Supreme Court bench today, when the case of the Territory vs. Li-luokalani et al. is called up. Justice Perry is disqualified in this case, and Chief Justice Frear is absent from the Territory, so that Justice Galbraith will be the only original member of the court who will sit. The other two acting justices will be Judge George D. Gear and Thomas Fitch.

The suit involves land rights, the Territory having secured an injunction against the defendants, restraining them from taking sand at low tide, alleging that the sand rights of defendants extend only to the high tide line. The fisheries case has been nolle prossed in the Supreme Court by Attorney General Dole.

Putting Up a Good Argument.

The La Insular of America cigar is unlike any other 5-cent cigar as regards shape, quality and workmanship. The smoker notices its distinctiveness and likens it to the Manila of old. The American Insular is made of a blend of tobacco particularly desirable for this climate, in a factory where personal cleanliness is exacted.

It has that Manila flavor and effect so desirable in the tropics. We give each dealer a guarantee whereby he may return the cigars any time within one year and receive purchase price paid in full. Dealer can't get stuck, can he? If out of town buyers return them we will pay freight charges. Not much risk there either. But don't think that a cigar which we unconditionally back to this extent everywhere, is anything like the cigars made by manufacturers generally. It is altogether different.

It will cost the dealer a little more because it costs us more, but any dealer who has sold the La Insular of America will tell you it is his leader today.

The trade name is registered by us at Washington, D. C. The labels purchased by us of the lithographer and the cigars made under our personal supervision to order. It has taken one year to produce this brand. It is a perfect smoke.

MISS LEWIS ON ENGLISH DRAMA

Of the many interesting contributions to literature which have been given in the parlors of the Young Women's Christian Association by Miss Elizabeth Lewis, of the faculty of Oahu College, none have had more historical interest than that which was read yesterday afternoon on "Bible Story in the Early English Drama."

The subject was cleverly handled and the details of the humble beginnings of the present-day drama succinctly told. Miss Lewis dealt with the mystery and miracle plays which were the outcroppings of religious enthusiasm in the early part of the middle ages, when the desire to learn Bible history was more a matter of the eye than for the mind.

Little by little the display of images in the churches produced a desire to have all the important personages of the Bible imitated, and thus in time the religious pageants on Easter and Christmas soon spread to many other feast days, until the services in reality became religious plays, or mysteries and miracles.

The lecturer said it was paradoxical that the finished modern drama should have had its beginning in such crude performances. The Passion Play grew out of the liturgical services of the Catholic church. This was made attractive by elaborate tableaux vivants, which was the first step toward the legitimate drama. The festivals became not holy days but holidays, and in time the plays could no longer be produced in the churches, and from the churchyards, they were transferred to the village greens, and eventually from the control of the priests into the keeping of strolling players. The miracle plays took up the different stories from the creation of the world to the judgment day. Everything was grotesque, and the idioms, thoughts and mannerisms of the middle ages were so introduced into those of the time represented in the Bible stories that they were in some part made ridiculous. In all there were 161 English religious plays. There was very little meter and attempt at rhyme in many of the plays. In one of the plays which had for its principal characters, Adam and Eve, God is made to appear upon the stage as a person and berate Adam in the mundane language of the middle ages. Lucifer sits in the divine chair, thinking of the splendid appearance he made there, when suddenly he found himself falling into perdition. Miss Lewis gave a detail of the various plays, some of which were quite amusing.

HAPPY OLD MEN.

Can youth be restored? Yes, all but the years. I will guarantee to restore the very essence of youth to men who have aged before their time; to men whose blood is cold; whose step is slow; who feel haggard, decrepit, spiritless and full of aches and pains. To such men Electricity is the "Fountain of Youth," and as infused into the body by Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt it brings joyful vigor.

A CURE OR NO PAY.

That's my plan. It costs you nothing if I fail. Let me pour the life-giving, glowing warmth into your body while you sleep at night and in a few months you feel like a young two-year-old.
